Understand Orders and Be Understood

Typically we think of stress as a bad thing, but that's not always the case. At low levels, stress can help you focus and give you the motivation you need to reach your goals. However, when your stress level is too high it stops being helpful and starts being harmful for both your productivity and your health.

It's important to monitor your stress levels and recognize when they're getting too high, so you can take steps to get yourself back on track.
